HENRICO COUNTY, Va. -- One person is dead after a high-speed chase involving a police cruiser and a pickup truck.

Henrico police say at approximately 4:11 p.m. Monday, officers conducted a traffic stop for a speeding violation along the 1400 block of S. Pearson Street. After the traffic stop, officers say the driver of the pickup truck made a U-turn and police tried to pull the vehicle over but the vehicle didn't stop. Police say the truck then made an abrupt right turn and the cruiser cut in front of the truck and struck the truck, causing it to roll over. The driver of the truck was pronounced dead at the scene. The driver of the cruiser was transported to a local hospital. It is unclear if the driver of the cruiser was injured. The crash is under investigation. The scene was blocked for a several hours as Henrico Police, Virginia State Police and National Transportation Safety Board were on scene investigating.

Difference between Earth, Moon and Sun: Sun, Moon and Earth have their own fixed orbits around the Earth and their relative distance depends on the eccentricity of Earth's orbit. Sun's distance with respect to Earth increases on average by about 9 million miles (15 million kilometers) every orbit. Earth has an elliptical orbit around the Sun, and in the year-long orbit around the Sun, the Earth's distance from the Sun varies between 384,400 miles (620,500 kilometers) at perihelion, the closest approach, to about 42,900,000 miles (70,000,000 kilometers) at aphelion, the farthest distance. During the same period the Sun's distance from the Earth (taking Earth's orbit to be circular) varies between 384,400 miles (620,500 kilometers) at perihelion and 93,900,000 miles (150,000,000 kilometers) at aphelion. The difference between the maximum and minimum distances of the Sun from the Earth at a given time equals about 94 million f678ea9f9e
